

Trader Behavior Analysis Based on Bitcoin Market Sentiment

Objective: Analyze the relationship between Bitcoin market sentiment and trader performance.

Key Findings:

- Extreme Greed periods showed the highest average profits.
- Win rates were generally higher during Greed-based market conditions.
- Fear periods tended to have weaker performance.
- Market sentiment can be used as an additional trading signal.

Conclusion: Trader performance appears correlated with market sentiment, suggesting that sentiment indicators may improve trading strategies and risk management.